Re: Unauthorized Use of AAA's Marks

Dear Sir or Madam:

We represent The American Automobile Association, Inc. ("AAA") in intellectual property litigation matters.

As you undoubtedly know, AAA offers under its famous AAA trademarks ("AAA Marks") a wide range of products and services, including automobile and travel-related services, to its more than 50 million members in the United States and Canada. AAA has been providing its members with these benefits for more than 100 years, and in that time its AAA Marks have become famous both in the United States and around the world. AAA has invested enormous resources to develop and foster the reputation, recognition, and goodwill of its and its member clubs' products and services.

AAA owns United States trademark registrations for its AAA Marks in connection with its products and services, including for use in connection with automobile and travel-related services. See, e.g., U.S. Trademark Reg. Nos. 829,265, 2,158,654, and 5,036,379. AAA has registered its AAA Marks with the United States Patent and Trademark Office for the exclusive use of itself and its member clubs.

AAA has recently learned that you are using the AAA Marks in connection with your trucking company AAA Logistics, Inc. In particular, your trucks display a mirror image of the AAA logo, as seen in the photo below:

COVINGTON

June 27, 2017

It is our understanding that AAA Logistics is not approved by or otherwise affiliated with AAA and that you are not authorized to use the AAA Marks in any way in connection with your business, including, but not limited to, on your business's trucks. Your unauthorized use of the AAA Marks is bound to cause consumers to become confused and to believe, erroneously, that your business is somehow approved by, or associated or affiliated with, AAA.

Accordingly, AAA hereby provides notice that your use of the AAA Marks constitutes willful infringement of AAA's valuable AAA Marks as well as false designation of origin and unfair competition and dilution in violation of Sections 32, 43(a) and 43(c) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1125(a), and 1125(c), and of state statutes and common law.

Based on the foregoing, AAA requests that you immediately discontinue use of the AAA Marks, and any other name, mark, or logo confusingly similar to them, in connection with your services, including on your trucks.

We hope that this matter can be resolved expeditiously and amicably, and we urge you to contact us to discuss any questions or concerns that you may have. If we do not hear from you or receive written confirmation of your compliance by July 11, 2017, AAA will take all steps necessary to protect its rights.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Dalton

Re: Unauthorized Use of AAA's Marks

Dear Sir or Madam:

We write regarding our June 27 letter concerning your unauthorized use of the AAA Marks, to which you have failed to respond. A copy of that letter is enclosed for your convenience.

In our previous letter we informed you that The American Automobile Association, Inc. ("AAA") owns trademarks ("AAA Marks"), including United States trademark registrations in connection with automobile repair and other emergency roadside services. Our letter further explained that your use of the AAA Marks is bound to harm AAA by causing consumers to become confused and to believe, erroneously, that you are somehow associated or affiliated with AAA. Such use infringes AAA's valuable AAA Marks in violation of numerous provisions of the Lanham Act, state statutes, and common law.

Accordingly, we hereby reiterate our request that you immediately discontinue use of the AAA Marks, and any other name, mark, or logo confusingly similar to them, in connection with your services, including on your trucks.

Although we continue to prefer to resolve this matter amicably, if we do not hear from you or receive written confirmation of your compliance by July 31, AAA will take all steps necessary to protect its rights.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Dalton

Re: Unauthorized Use of AAA's Marks

Dear Mr. Babchuk:

It has come to our attention that contrary to your claim that you have ceased use of the AAA Marks, you continue to display the AAA Marks on your company's trucks.

Such use is a blatant violation of AAA's rights, and this conduct is plainly in bad faith. For more than five months AAA has tried to reach an amicable solution to this matter with you and has been patient in seeking your compliance with the law.

Given your continued bad faith infringement of AAA's marks, going forward you must stay far away from the AAA Marks and choose an alternative name that does not incorporate the AAA mark.

At a minimum, you must take the following immediate actions:

1. Permanently cease use of the AAA Logistics business name and mark as well as any use of any other name, mark, or logo confusingly similar to them, including any name, mark, or logo that incorporates a combination of multiple letter "A's";
2. Destroy all materials displaying the AAA Logistics business name and mark and any other name, mark, or logo confusingly similar to the AAA Marks, including signs, advertisements, forms, Internet content, and stationery;

3. Cancel all advertisements displaying the AAA Logistics business name and mark, whether on the Internet or elsewhere, including on Facebook and Google+;
4. Amend the articles of incorporation for AAA Logistics to discontinue use of any name, mark, or logo confusingly similar to the AAA Marks, and file such amendments, as required, with the New York Department of State, Division of Corporations, State Records & UCC; and
5. Provide evidence that you are taking steps to complete these actions as well as confirmation once these actions have been completed.

If we do not receive evidence that you are taking steps to comply with the above requests by January 4, 2017, AAA will take all steps necessary to protect its rights, including by filing a trademark infringement complaint in federal court.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Dalton
